Select Poetry.

KISSING IN THE STREET.

Did you ever notice mortals—
Now I'll bet a cent you did—
How the ladies—pretty creatures—
Can't keep their feelings hid?
But they are kissing out in public;
Kissing everywhere they meet;
Kiss—kiss at church, at shopping,
And—kissing—in the street!

Behold a charming maiden,
Arrayed in fashions bright,
She meets upon the sidewalk
A friend she saw last night:
"How are you darling Nellie!
How glad I am to meet,"
Then a dainty shake of fingers
And a—kissing—in the street!

A bachelor beside us
Says, "pity this is done
So much, for I am certain
It can't be any fun;
This kissing out in public:
Kissing everywhere they meet;
Kiss, kiss, at church and shopping,
And—kissing—in the street."

"But the secret great, is this, sir:
The maiden has no beau—
No gentlemen to kiss her—
She must her feelings show
By kissing out is public;
Kissing all she may meet:
Kiss, kiss, at church and shopping;
And—kissing—is the street!"

Now, merry hearted maidens,
And women more discreet,
Give over this bad habit
Of kissing in the street;
Remember that false traitor
Who knelt at Jesus' feet,
And don't become a greater
By kissing in the street

Be noble-minded women,
With hearts attend to right;
Then shall each see the other
As those who dwell in light;
But never for an instant—
Whoever you may meet—
Be caught like silly noodles,
A kissing in the street.

Select Miscellany.

Untimely Deaths.

The New York Ledger contains the following mournful yet tender reminiscences of the White House, and its inmates, during a very few years past.—It embodies lessons which we may all profitably read:

"The telegraph announced, a few days ago, that while Andrew Johson, late President of the United States, was at Athens, Alabama, on his way to Pulaski, where he was to make a speech, he received intelligence of the death of his son, Col. Robert Johnson.

"Andrew Johnson always exhibited the tenderest affection for his son, on whom he had bestowed an excellent education. He was a young man of superior abilities and remarkably pleasant manners. He had been a member of the Legislature of Tennessee, and the upward path to usefulness and distinction lay open and easy before him. One only besetting sin forever blighted all his bright prospects; he had an uncontrollable thirst for strong drink. The last we heard of him, previous to the news of his death, he was somewhere in an inebriate asylum.

"The announcement of Col. Robert Johnson's decease carries us back to the White House in the first days of Andrew Johnson's Administration. Robert was then one of his father's Private Secretaries. Col. W. A. Browning was another. Browning was one of the handsomest men in the world—tall, muscular, finely formed, with an open, pleasing countenance, and a complexion as clear, and a skin as fine, as Ireland or Nantucket gives to the fairest of women—He had graduated at Yale College, and was a fine belles lettres scholar, and a man of many accomplishments. He had been with Mr. Johnson in Tennessee for several years, and went with him to the White House. But his stay was of short duration. He received the appointment of Secretary of Legation to Mexico. He never left the country, however. The same habit which has now carried off young Johnson, did its fatal work with him more speedily. He was extremely popular, and the idol of women. Yet we have seen him turn from the loveliest of smiles, and from the gayest scenes of festivity, and quietly remark: 'My heart is broken—I have no wish to live.'

"Mr. Browning was married, when quite young, to a beautiful girl, who lived but a short time after her marriage. He never seemed to recover, in any degree, from the shock of her death. On the contrary, the pain of the separation seemed constantly to deepen and grow more poignant in his heart. The last time we met him was in Washington, only a short time before his death. In the course of a brief conversation, he said: 'I have just parted with the most beautiful women in America; but my heart is buried in my wife's grave, and I want to die.'

"Soon afterward, he shut himself up in a room, and deliberately drank whisky until it killed him.

"At the beginning of the time of which we speak, another inmate of the White House was Preston King. How jelly he looked and felt—and how his hearty laugh shook his great, heavy sides!—King, though a mild-mannered man, and a lawyer by education, had been an athlete and a fighter in his young days, and was always a bit of a dandy, weighing, we should say, upward of an eighth of a ton. He used to receive, at the White House, arrayed in white pants and vest, and wearing something like the old-fashioned pump shoes, highly polished—such as Prosper M. Wetmore used to wear when he called on Secretary of State, Marcy.

"We have said, Mr. King felt very jolly now. He was the President's other self, and had things his own way. He considered that he had been snubbed and badly treated by the Seward men, in the election of Morgan to supersede him, when he had served only one term in the Senate; but now he was greater than Seward; for was he not almost as good as President, while Seward was only Secretary of State?

"Alas! that very elevation to power was the cause of Mr. King's awful and untimely death. His influence—his ascendency—at the White House was felt to be altogether too great by the jealous and envious politicians with whose purposes it interfered. They cunningly contrived to banish him to honorable exile, by making him Collector of the Port of New-York, an office for which he had neither taste nor adaptation. Its perplexing, complicated and harassing duties—and, we have always thought, the discovery of the trick which had been practiced upon him—preyed upon his mind, until his reason tottered and yielded. With the cunning of a determined madman, he stole away from the friendly keeper who undertook to watch him; and having purchased a large bag of shot, he tied it securely to his neck, then took passage on a ferry boat, and sprang from its deck into the North river. Several months afterward, his body rose to the surface, and floated ashore, where it was discovered and recognized; and it was taken to his home at Ogdensburg, and buried.

"The good old man who was steward at the White House then, and whose face was so familiar to so many—he too is dead. He was followed to his grave by sincere mourners, among whom were the President and his family.

"When we recall all these, and we think of Old Abe, and of his darling little son Willie, who yielded up his young spirit in that house—and we see the great crowd surging in and out of the grand receptions of the new powers that be—we pause for a moment to wonder whether the living who are there to-day ever think of those who were there in all the power and pride of State, so short a time ago, and who may now be flitting as substantial shadows among them!

Spoiling Children.

Spoiling, in its earlier stages, is rather pleasant. It consists in letting one's darling have its own precious little way on all occasions, and the way is such a pretty, roguish, winsome way, nobody can see any harm in it. Grown up willfulness is quite a different thing from baby willfulness. It gets teeth and claws, so to speak, and isn't nice to contemplate. Spoiling appears to mean a great many different things. One of its mild forms is total disregard for the feelings and the convenience of others. If you meet a peculiarly upsetting woman on a journey, or a party of pleasure, who ought to be square when she is triangular, and triangular when she is square, you may set it down that she was a spoiled child.

There are parents who would stint their allowance of fire or food in order to indulge their children's whims. The idea of parental sacrifice becomes morbid, especially if the child happens to be admired and praised. There are mothers who pinch their own wardrobes to bedeck their little girls in expensive garments, fostering a taste for extravagant dress which they cannot honestly indulge.

Although people in the lower ranks, or the middle class, do contrive, occasionally, to spoil their children by indulgence, the business is not carried on wholesale, as it is among the rich. Necessity is a severe and yet a kind stepdame. Her motto is service, and service is the salt of life. In a large family, not very well to do, the older children educate the younger ones. They feel almost as responsible as the parents, and, perhaps, exert more influence in their little way. Such a child-life seems bald and gray, compared with the fairy scenes through which richer children dance and sing; but it, in reality, keeps young tastes fresh and pure, and whets the appetite, instead of cloying it with enjoyment. This is only a part of the benefit derived from a childhood taxed with some responsibility, and judiciously denied as well as indulged.

Self-control is the one thing spoiled children never learn. Their desires are always rampant. We see the features of the little boy who kicked his nurse and brow-beat his mother in some passionate, dissipated, irregular young man, and we shake our heads and say, "We knew how he would turn out." The spoiled girl develops into an exacting, unscrupulous woman. Life must center round her, the world must wait upon her, not because she has any special merit, nor because she has ever done anything, but merely because she was a spoiled child.

Her husband is a martyr. I have generally noticed that such girls marry meek little men, who seem to consider it their principal business in life to carry about a load of shawls, and attend to the poodle.

—A little girl was told to spell ferment and give its meaning, with a sentence in which it was used. The following was literally her answer: "F-e-r-m-e-n-t, a verb, signifying to work: I love to ferment in the garden."

The Home of Barbara Fritchie.

The last remnant of the old house where Barbara Fritchie lived and toiled, has been removed, and laborers are now employed in digging some ten feet below the original foundation, as if to root out the spot of earth upon which it stood.—A few days more, and the tourest, the patriot and the poet will have pointed to them the muddy waters of Carroll creek as where once stood the weird old house of the faithful defender of her country's flag.

It seems to have been the determination of our city authorities to erase from the memory of man that the "Fritchie woman" ever lived; and, guarded by this desire, the first step was to destroy the house in which she had lived, and where, to Stonewall Jackson,

"Shoot, if you must, this old grey head,
But spare your country's flag, she said,"

and to the accomplishment of this object they turned all the genius and ability with which nature has so liberally gifted them. They first passed an ordinance to widen and straighten Carroll creek.—They then decided that the Fritchie house was in the line of the proposed improvement, and then agreed to "wipe the damned spot out."

"Barbara Fritchie's work is o'er,
The rebel rides his raids no more"

Yet the spirit was predominent, and to gratify the hatred of the house, rendered immortal by the poet, they have, in straightening the creek, absolutely made three sharp angles to strike the point at which they aimed. Sagacious men! know they not that "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church?" The name of Barbara Fritchie shall live long after that of those who, "dressed in a little brief authority," shall have passed away forever. The tuneful Nine have it in care, and poetry and song shall waft it down to future ages, and men shall say that Whittier wrote when Barbara lived.

Now, that the long-loved, picturesque little house has gone forever, an air of romance and of mystery is thrown around it and its history, which could never been so long as it stood a material object to the view, and as over the old site the sluggish waters of the creek flow toward the sea, they will yet whisper the name of Barbara to a free and loyal people. Photographs have been taken of it, and the pencils of artists will present it as pictured to the eye of genius, and their conceptions will yet adorn the palace and the cottage, wherever breathes that patriotic love of country of which Barbara Fritchie is the embodiment, and her house the stand-point.

On the desk before me, I have two photographs, one of the good old woman, the other of the strange, old-fashioned house; that of the house is now doubly dear to me, and in a few years will be priceless; the firm, yet gentle features of the old lady look on me kindly as I write, and seem to smile, as I make the proposition, that a monument, on which shall be recorded her patriotism and heroism, shall be erected, in this city, to her memory. On the pedestal might be inscribed—

"Up rose Barbara Fritchie then,
Bowed with her four score years and ten,
Bravest of all in Fredericktown,
She took up the flag the men hauld down
In her attic window the staff she set
To show that one heart was loyal yet."

Thus did the Romans and their matrons. Let some one, more able than I, take up this subject, and the necessary money can be raised; if not here, in those parts of the country where honor and patriotism are still held in reverence, and the love for the old flag still burns warm and true.

Sam and Jim.

"Come, Jim, let's go in and take a little. Old Bob Bummer keeps the best liquor in town. Come, don't hang back; let's go in."

"Sam, I have been thinking this matter over since I saw you last, and I can't do it. To be plain with you, Sam, I have given my heart to the Lord Jesus, and you will never see me drink again. Besides, I have been figuring on this matter some, and what do you suppose it costs us to patronize old Bob?"

"Well, a dollar or two a week, I suppose," said Sam.

Jim, taking a pencil and a piece of paper from his pocket-book, handed them to Sam, and said, "Let us look at it fully, and make a fair calculation. You deposit—

"Your money—and lose it.
"Your time—and lose it.
"Your health of body—and lose it.
"Your strength of mind—and lose it.
"Your manly independence—and lose it.
"Your self-respect—and lose it.
"Your sense of right and wrong—and lose it.
"Your self-control—and lose it.
"Your home comfort—and lose it.
"Your wife's happiness—and lose it.
"Your children's rights—and lose them.
"Your country's honor—and lose it.
"Your own soul—and lose it."

"Jim, I'll take the pledge for life on that. Come, let's go up to the Young men's Christian Association Rooms, and sign the pledge together,"

Is it not just as true of gambling as of rum, that they destroy every thing before them? Are they not twin crimes?

A SUBSCRIPTION paper, circulated for some charitable purpose, was presented to a wealthy French manufacturer, who subscribed 20 francs. "Twenty francs!" said the lady who presented the list to him; "Why your son has suscribed 50 francs." "That's all very well," replied the manufacturer, "my son has a rich father, and can afford it."

Sunday Sickness.

Dr.———, among other valuable papers, a few years ago, published one describing this remarkable disease, which has not yet been treated in books of Pathology.

1. This disease is of the intermitting kind, attacking the patient in violent paroxysms, which return every seventh day. These paroxysms return only on the Lord's day, and hence it is called Sunday Sickness—but by the faculty it is technically known by no other name than "Dici Dominici Morbus."

2. It partakes somewhat of the nature of ague, especially as it is attended with a great degree of coldness. This coldness is first apparent, early in the morning of the Lord's day; in many cases seizing the patient before he has left his bed.—But it begins in the region of the heart, and is attended with dullness of head, followed by yawning and lethargy.

3. The patient is sometimes deprived of the use of his limbs, especially the legs and feet, so that he is indisposed to walk to the house of God.

4. In some cases this attack has come upon them after they have gone to the house of God, and has been attended with yawning and slumber.

5. In other cases, there has been great uneasiness in the house of God, and a disposition to complain of the length of the sermon, though they have been known to sit very contentedly, in a play-house, several hours at a time.

6. Persons affected with this disease never mourn on account of their confinement from public Worship, as many afflicted with other diseases often do.

7. These persons often surprise their neighbors with their great activity and health on Monday, however unfavorable the weather may be.

8. Most of the faculty agree that there is a low, feverish heat, technically called febris Aundi, or fever of the world, which may be detected in these patients, during the intervening days of the week.

9. There also seems to be a loss of appetite, for savory food, and a want of relish for manic vitic bread of life, which, in this case, is the indispensable remedy for the disease.

10. Persons affected with this disease, generally have a disrelish for private religious exercises of the closet, and the reading of the Scriptures.

11. This disease is also contagious; neighbors receive it from neighbors, and children from parents.

WHIP ME, BUT DON'T CRY.—A pious father had devoted great attention to the education of his son, who had maintained an unblemished reputation until the age of fourteen, when he was detected in a deliberate falsehood.

The father's grief was great, and he determined to punish the offender severely. He made the subject one of prayer; for it was too important, in his esteem, to be passed over as a common occurrence of the day.

He then called his son, and prepared to inflict the punishment. But the fountain of the father's heart was broken up. He wept aloud. He saw the struggle between love and justice in the parent's bosom, and broke out with his usual earnestness, "Father, father, whip me as much as you please; but don't cry."

The point was gained. The father saw that the lad's character was sensibly affected by this incident. He grew up, and became one of the most distinguished Christian ministers in America.

THE LAST CHICKEN GONE.—When the Conference assembled in Hillsborough, some years since, on the last day of the session, a lad, whose dad entertained some half dozen preachers, entered the room where some ministers were seated, in a terrible state of excitement.

"What's the matter, Isaac," asked one, "you seem excited."

"Excited! I ain't excited; I'm mad all over."

"What are you mad about, Isaac?—Don't you know it's wrong to suffer yourself to get angry!"

"Wrong or no wrong, it is enough to make any body mad but a preacher.—Here's every chicken on the place eat up, except the old rooster, and just now he happened to see you fellows, and sung out; "and must this body die?" and dropped over stone dead.

WATERED CIDER.—A party of men were surveying for a railroad; and, of course, they were entitled to the best there was along the line. At one house they thought the proprietor was a little tardy in producing the cider. It came at last, and was tasted by one of the party, with great deliberation. "How much cider did you make this year?" he asked. "Fifteen barrels," was the answer. Another sip. "Well, if you'd had another apple you might have made another barrel."

Six things are necessary to create "a happy home." Integrity must be the architect, and tidiness the upholster. It must be warmed by affection and lighted up with cheerfulness, and industry must be the ventil

The Democratic Candidate for Governor.

To the uninitiated, says the Beaver Radical, the contest for the empty honor of a Democratic nomination for Governer of Pennsylvania lies between Gen. GEO. W. CASS, Hon. ASA PACKER and Gen. Wm. MCCANDLES. But not far behind the scenes another and more ponderous aspirant lies concealed, and this ambushed hero is no less a personage than Maj. Gen. WINFIELD S. HANCOCK. The relative strength of these candidates may be more correctly estimated after a survey of the interests and aims of vast corporations, potent but invisible in the struggle, and a glance at the attitude of the Democratic party during the eight years past, with its present straits and necessities.

First then, a struggle of the greatest magnitude between the Eastern and the North-eastern lines of railroad traversing our State, and the "Trunk lines" running east and west, is now going on, and everything political in some way or other seems to be dragged into this warring vortex. Cass represents the "Trunk line" interest, and Packer the Eastern and Northern system. Each party to the war has determined to own the next Governor. The bitterness which already characterizes the contest, and the unlimited resources of the combatants, will most probably reduce the contest between the Railroad Kings to a Kilkenny cat fight, and the arena being cleared of them, either party will dash in to put up a compromise candidate, each intriguing to get off with all of the nominee, and both—ten to one—being cheated in the end.

HANCOCK and MCCANDLES are both bitter pills for the Democracy of Pennsylvania to swallow, for both have waged a merciless war on Democracy from the first gun at Sumpter, until the collapse of the late rebellion of the Democratic party. Both, however, have made such amends as lay in their power, and the question now between them is which can grovel lowest before the party both were shooting during the war. It is difficult to decide to whom the palm should be given; nor do we know where, outside a Magdalen society, the power to judge between them exists. HANCOCK, however, in our analysis seems to have gathered a baseness of peculiar rankness and infamy. MCCANDLES entered the army as a Democrat, and without giving up his party fealty, shot its adherents down without pity, but not, as it seems, without remorse. He came from the walks of civil and political life, and his sympathies and surroundings held him within the pale of his party. His young and generous heart bore him headlong after the idol in whose worship so many brave fellows have fallen; and if MCCLELLAN had not been permitted to startle us with his incapacity and demagoguery, the chances are that MCCANDLES would have been a good Republican. His fall was more to be attributed to his generous enthusiasm than to positive dullness. But with HANCOCK it is entirely different. He was educated by the Government whose flag was shot down by South Carolina Democrats. He was already in the army, and his oath bound him to defend the flag. His business was to fight. He had no politics, or if he had they were subordinated to the rigor of military ethics and discipline. No ties were to be broken by the professional soldier born in Pennsylvania, and no political pressure kept him back, or awakened his doubts. He entered the war, backed by his education, his section, his social ties and his duty. He began at once, and fought as became a soldier, and during the struggle he cast behind him political principles and hero worship. McClellan was nothing to him but a rival and a failure. He did good service, and obtained a noble reward. And when a year or two ago, he deliberately concluded to return to his vomit, he had a long way to go, and a dirty puddle to plunge into. But he made the journey and the plunge, and is now the representative man of those who turn their backs upon their comrades, their flag and their fame. Whether he is yet low enough to satisfy the Democracy of Pennsylvania, we cannot tell; but if he is not, then no Federal soldier need begin to fall in hope of reaching the level of their support.

That HANCOCK thinks he has touched bottom there can be little doubt, for he fondly hopes for the nomination at Democratic hands on the 4th of July next. And he is not content with a dignified candidacy; he has commenced to intrigue for the place. The telegraph a few days ago announced, that forgetting his pride and character as a soldier, he protested against being assigned to active service by his commanding officer. The object of his protest is to place him in a more marked position of hostility to the President and GEN. SHERMAN, and so awaken the sympathy of those who hate "LINCOLN'S hirelings," the "butcher GRANT," and the cause for which the soldiers of HANCOCK laid down their lives in many a bloody field. This attitude, deliberately taken by a recusant soldier who seems ashamed of his own virtues, will probably recommend him as a martyr to a party which despises all virtue and patriotism alike. The next question is, will such recalcitrance suit the Boys in Blue.

Free Trade and Protection.

Free trade in its unlimited sense, such free trade as is preached by the most vociferous of its advocates, means dependence upon foreign sources for everything that can be produced abroad cheaper than it can be made at home. It means death to the manufacturing and mechanical interests of the country, and the conversion of the enterprising mechanics, who now add so much industrial wealth of the nation, into agriculturists. It means a glut in the market of all the agricultural products, and consequent low prices and discouragement to those engaged in agriculture. It means exposure to sudden deprivation of those necessaries of life for which we rely upon foreign sources, at any time our foreign relations become disturbed, and consequent large advance in their price, and distress resulting from diminished supply.

Protection, on the contrary, does not imply prohibition, as its opponents, many of them, unfairly claim. It means only the proper adjustment of tariffs so that we can compete with foreign producers in all those industries, which may, with moderate encouragement, thrive here, and for which we possess equal natural advantages with foreign competitors. It means protection to labor against forced competition with the cheap labor of Europe. It means opportunity for those whose natural genius leads them into other fields of industry than agriculture, to develop that genius and thus add to the mental wealth of the country as well as to its material resources.

All cannot be successful farmers or merchants, and any policy which tends to confine the abilities of men to any one channel, however broad that channel may be, is a bad policy.

We hear a great deal about the distinction between a revenue tariff and a protective tariff, as though these were and ought to be considered separately; we do not believe in this distinction. We hold that the best revenue tariff will be the one that protects the industries of the Commonwealth—the sources from which all revenue must, notwithstanding the sophistry by which it is attempted to disguise this important and fundamental truth.

No more fatal error has ever found adherents in the political history of our country than the doctrine of "free trade." When mankind become one nation, one brotherhood; when all produce equally, not alone for self but for the good of the whole; when ignorance, and greed, and lust of power no longer exist; when the millennium has come, free trade will be the thing. Meanwhile we seem to live in an epoch some thousands of years too early for that blissful consummation.

The truth of the above proposition is found not only in logical conclusions from well established premises, but in the history of the United States for the last half century. The tariff of 1833 produced its legitimate results in the ruin of 1837, and the country recovered only under the protective tariff of 1842. The subsequent adoption of a free trade policy in 1846, brought us to the very verge of disaster in 1849, which was staved off for a few years by the gold production of California. But 1857 brought the climax of distress upon the country, and there are many young men who can remember that bitter lesson. To use the words of Henry C. Carey—"Once again do we find the country driven to protection, and the public credit by its means so well established as to enable the treasury with little difficulty to obtain the means of carrying on a war whose annual cost was more than the public expenditures of half a century, including the war with Great Britain in 1812. Thrice thus, with the tariffs of 1828, 1842 and 1860 has protection redeemed the country from almost ruin. Thrice thus under the revenue tariffs of 1817, 1834 and 1860, has it been sunk so low that none could be found "so poor as to do it reverence." Such having been our experience through half a century it might have been supposed that the question would be regarded now as settled, yet do we find among us, men in office and out of office, secretaries and senators, owners of ships and railroads, farmers and laborers, denouncing the system under which, at every period of its existence, and more especially in that of the recent war, they had so largely prospered—thereby proving how accurate has been the description of them by an eminent foreigner as 'the people who soonest forget yesterday.'"

These are well known and often asserted facts, yet blind to their teachings, the preachers of free trade are urging their views upon the public, and enlisting in their behalf even the services of eminent divines and college professors, in order to win by claptrap a certain class who are led by distinguished names and high-sounding titles. Such men, distinguished for their want of financial ability almost as much as for their great acquirements in letters and theology, are the men who are to instruct the country upon political economy.

None are more likely to be deceived by their special pleading than farmers, and no class would be more seriously injured by the adoption of a free trade policy. Far removed from commercial centers, and not conversant with the details of trade, it seems difficult for them to comprehend how cheapening iron and cotton goods should not be beneficial to them.—They do not see the connection between the prices of manufactured goods, and the prices of their products, and the value of land. The best way to convince them is to point them to the indisputable fact that when such goods have hitherto advanced in price under the genial influence of protection, their ability to purchase has always advanced in a greater ratio from the consequent increase in the value of farm products. We trust farmers will not permit themselves to be deceived in this matter. Let them judge of the present and the future by the past, which sheds a clear and unmistakable light upon this subject, and in the history of which stand yoked together, invariably, protection and prosperity, free trade and disaster.—Scientific American.

Meeting of Conferees

A meeting of the conference selected by the Union Republican party in the Sen'l Dist. of Blair, Centre, Huntingdon, Mifflin, Juniata and Perry, was held at Tyrone on the 18th inst., Said meeting was organized by electing Prof. A. L. Guss as Chairman, and Thomas McCamant as Secretary. The following persons appeared and presented claims as conferees from the respective counties, viz:

Blair County.—Caleb Guyer, Jos. Robison and Thomas McCamant.

Centre County.—John G. Love, S. D. Gray, and P. B. Wilson.

Huntingdon County.—Prof. A. L. Guss, Hon. A. J. Beaver and H. Clay Weaver.

Mifflin County.—David W. Woods, Henry Garver, J. Woods Sterrett and William Mann.

Juniata County.—W. W. Davis, Jeremiah Lyons, J. W. Muthersbaugh, John J. Patterson, Wm. H. Patterson and Hon. John K. Robison.

Perry County.—Jesse L. Gantt, Abraham Grubb and W. Hays.

The seat of J. Woods Sterrett, one of the conferees elected from Mifflin county, being claimed by Wm. Mann by virtue of a letter of substitution, and there being two sets of conferees claiming seats from Juniata county, it was resolved that the claimants be allowed ten minutes each to state their cases. After hearing the proofs and statements of the parties they were requested to retire from the Conference, and it was then resolved, after mature deliberation, that J. Woods Sterrett was entitled to his seat as a conferee from Mifflin county, and that W. W. Davis, Jeremiah Lyons and J. W. Muthersbaugh be admitted as conferees from Juniata county.

William Lewis and David W. Woods were unanimously elected delegates to represent the Senatorial District, composed of the counties aforesaid, in the next Republican State Convention.

The following preamble and resolution were then read and adopted, viz:

WHEREAS, the sentiment of the Union Republican party in the Senatorial district composed of the counties of Blair, Centre, Huntingdon, Mifflin, Juniata and Perry, being undoubtedly and decidedly favorable to the re nomination of our present true and loyal Governor, Gen. John W. Geary; therefore.

Be it Resolved by this Conference, that Wm. Lewis and David W. Woods, the delegates now elected to represent the district aforesaid in the next Republican State Convention, be and they are hereby instructed to vote for and use all fair and honorable means to secure the re-nomination of Gen. John W. Geary, as our candidate for Governor at the next ensuing general election.

On motion, the town of Huntingdon was recommended as a proper place for the meeting of the next Republican Senatorial Conference in this district; and on motion it was resolved that the proceedings of this Conference be published in the different Republican newspapers published in the Senatorial district. There being no other business before the conference, it then adjourned sine die.

THOS. MCCAMANT, Secretary.

The question of liability for town scrip issued in nearly all Southern towns during the Rebellion has received a final settlement at the hands of Chief-Justice Chase. He decides that the authorities under which it was issued being a de facto Government, the towns would have been liable for its redemption if it had been issued for ordinary purposes. But it was put out to aid the Rebellion, and its redemption cannot therefore be ordered by the Government it was designed to subvert.

—A fire at Atchison, Kansas, Thursday night, destroyed the wholesale grocery store of Graham, Washer & Co., the Champion and Press newspaper office, and Wendell's news depot. Loss $29,000; insured for $22,500.

—By the explosion of varnish in the Japanning establishment of Snyder & Finch, Newark, New Jersey, on Friday, John H. Purdy, Mr. Finch and the son of the latter were badly burned.

—The coal miners held a formal meeting at Scranton on Saturday, and decided, by a vote of 408 to 369, against suspending. This definitely settles the question of a strike in that region.

Our Washington Letter.

WASHINGTON, D. C.
May 21st 1869.

DEAR REPUBLICAN:

Our city would scarcely be recognized by the visitor of Mar. 4th, so complete the is metamorphosis. A quiet stroll along the thoroughfares is a thing to be had for the asking, or rather seeking now. The few persistent office-seekers who still linger, despite the absence of their influential friends, are more than off-set by such of our fashionable's (as can afford it), departure for the North, tho' why they desire a cooler atmosphere than we now enjoy is a mystery to the uninitiated, The President is more at liberty than he is wont to be, and if we may judge from the satisfied look his countenance bears while taking his daily stroll around the "Departmental" portion of the city, he enjoys his freedom hugely.

Our Base Ball fraternity have commenced "active hostilities" for the season, and last night all those given to athletic sports were rejoicing at the overwhelming defeat sustained yesterday, by the "Marylanders," of Baltimore, the present "champions of the South," at the hands of the "Olympics," one of the favorite clubs of this city. The championship of the South has been held by the "Nationals" for several years past; but just at the close of last season they lost it. It is generally conceeded that it will "come back" this year, and the only question is whether it shall be held by the "Nationals" again, or the young and vigorous "Olympics." On Saturday last, in a "friendly" game, the latter carried off the ball by one run, and to-morrow the first of the regular match games—best two in three—will be decided. Gen. Michler, the officer discharging the duties formerly performed by the Commissioner of Public Buildings and grounds, has called down on his devoted head, the anathemas of the ballists and their friends, for refusing to allow ball-playing on the "White Lot," a field equalled by few, and surpassed by none, for that particular purpose, and which had been so used from time immemorial. However, submission is their only course.

The lovers of horse flesh also have had a rich treat for the past two weeks. On every fair day of the week, ending May 15th, they have had one or more trotting contests on the "National" course, and this week have been indulged with bona-fide racing. The fine stable of Gov. Bowrie, of Maryland, and several from West Virginia, as well as horses owned in this vicinity, participated in these meetings.—One of the best stables in America, belonging to Mr. McConnell of Southern Ohio, also came here, intending to enter for the races, but finding that the horses had been somewhat injured by the long trip on the cars, passed on to Jerome Park, N. Y., to get ready for the summer meeting there. In this stable is the famous "Bayswater," whose brilliant performances as a three year old caused him to be ragarded as the "coming rival" of the great "Kentucky." Not broken down, the question of their relative merits would have been tested this year. We have often wondered how it is that the people of your section, noted, as they are, for their love of fine horses, have, apparently at least, taken so little heed of the almost incalculable benefits to be derived from a judicious intermingling of the blood of the Race Horse with the stock now owned by them. The qualities of speed, strength, courage, endurance and docility (when trained in time) have never been combined to such a degree as is exhibited by the American Race Horse. "A word to the wise is sufficient."

Mrs. Scott-Siddons, who claims to be a grand-daughter of the great Mrs. Siddons, has been playing the "legitimate drama," for the past two weeks, to good houses, which show that the taste of the public is not so wholly perverted as the managers who have "put forth" some of the shameful representations so much in vogue, would have us believe.

On Wednesday the 9th proximo, the National Division of the Sons of Temperance of North America, will begin their Annual Session in this city. Every preparation is being made for a grand Session. The "Congregational Church," "Carroll Hall," and "Odd Fellows Hall" have been secured and will be appropriately decorated for the occasion. It is expected that the most prominent Temperance men of the whole country will be present. We bid them God-speed. On the 9th of June also, (unless the date be changed on account of the Temperance gathering) Columbiana Law College holds its annual commencement, and some seventy five young Lawyers, more or less, will be turned loose on the defenseless community. Bad for the "community," isn't it?

The ceremony of decorating the graves of the "martyrs for the Union" will be observed on the 29th inst.—Some of the Heads of Departments have already issued circulars, excusing from duty on that day, all employees who desire to participate in thus honoring the remains of the fallen, and it is more than probable that the example thus set will be generally followed.

The privilege of thus honoring the graves of our dead heroes is also a duty, inasmuch as it teaches the rising generation, by the powerful voice of example to honor the cause for which their fathers fought. While the spirit of devotion to the flag, and of honor to its defenders remain, let it be evidenced by deeds.

Truly Yours,
KAPPA.

Bulling the Price of Gold.

The Treasury, says the N. Y. Tribune, holds a surplus of at least Sixty Millions of Gold, which ought long since to have been used to pay off Public Debt, and thus reduce our annual burden of interest. That Gold would, once since we held it have bo't Eighty Millions of Six per Cents; it would still buy over Seventy Millions. The sooner it is employed "for the purchase" or "payment" of bonds, as the law directs, the better for the public interest. Such a hoard, lying dead, makes Gold scarce and Bonds plentiful in the channels of business, whereas, it is the public interest, in view of the urgent need of funding our Debt at lower rates of interest, that Gold should abound and Bonds be scarce. The Treasury stands right in its own light in allowing a dollar of coin beyond its current needs to rest in the Treasury.

The operators for a rise have managed to put up the premium on Gold; and this they can do so long as the Treasury backs them by hoarding Gold. Every dollar thus hoarded is carried for their benefit. If the Treasury held but Ten Millions of coin, they could not keep up Gold to any thing like its present premium. But, so long as the Treasury hold on to One Hundred Millions, they can manage and manipulate the residue with ease.

Putting up the premium on Gold is playing right into the hands of the Secretary, assuming that he wishes to use his surplus coin to reduce the public Debt. If he can sell Gold at 140 and buy Bonds at 115, every Million of his cash will buy up over one Million and a Quarter of Bonds. He ought to thank the gamblers for helping him to so favorable an opportunity, and improve it to the utmost. Instead of One Million of Bonds per week, he should buy up Five, Ten, Fifteen, Twenty Millions—all that he can get at anything like the present prices of Bonds and Gold respectively. We do not believe he will ever again see a week wherein Ten Millions of Gold will buy up so large an amount of Bonds as at this moment. He should buy—buy—buy—so long as $1,000,000 in gold will purchase $1,100,000 of the National Debt and he has a surplus of gold to sell. Such, we cannot doubt, is his intention. He may buy but $1,000,000 this week; but, if the great disparity between Gold and Bonds shall continue, he will buy more and more Bonds from week to week here after. So crowd up the premium on coin, Messrs. Gold-Gamblers! so that our gold shall serve to wipe out as many bonds as possible!

COMPLETION OF THE PACIFIC RAILROAD.

GREAT RUSH TO STERNBERG'S.

Sung to the Tune of "Yankee Doodle.

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And now comple connection's made,—
An enterprising notion.

The mighty work at last is done,
So speedily and brisk, oh!
And now in ten days we can run
From here to San Francisco.

No more we take the ancient route,
The stage, a horrid slow thing;
It banged the passengers about,
And wore out all their clothing.

CHORUS, for the end of each verse:

The Great Pacific Railroad's laid,
From ocean unto ocean,
And we buy clothes from A. STERNBERG
A most delightful notion.

Through passengers by the Pacific Railroad will call at the store of A. Sternberg, before starting, and provide themselves with a complete outfit of the elegant and substantial Spring and Summer Clothing, the very best assortment of which will always be found at A. Sternberg's Store.

People who travel by other routes, and also people who, instead of traveling by any route at all, prefer to stay at home, can find the most superior and seasonable garments, for every occasion, of every variety, and at the lowest prices.

Do not fail to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere; if you do not, we are sure you will be sorry that you did not. Our goods are put down to the lowest figure. We sell whole suits, according to quality,

JOB WORK.—Posters, Circulars, Bill Heads, Cards, Paper Books, Job Work of all kinds, neatly executed at the REPUBLICAN OFFICE, at reasonable rates.

SAVE MONEY.—If you want posters, circulars, bill heads, cards, paper books, first-class job work, plain or fancy, call at the REPUBLICAN office. All work done at Philadelphia prices.

FARM FOR SALE.—Bond Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, with in one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

The State Sabbath School Convention will be held at Williamsport, Pa., to commence on Tuesday, June 1, '69, and continue three days. All Sabbath Schools, throughout the State, are requested to send delegates.

THE ONLY GENUINE.—The only place to buy the genuine and justly celebrated Liver Pills, manufactured by Dr. E. Green, is at the drug-store of F. S. Wilson, Brockerhoff house, Room No. 1. Be sure to inquire for Dr. E. Green's Liver Pills, at F. S. Wilsons. †

FOR SALE.—A first-class brick residence, neatly finished, large and commodious, situate in one of the most pleasant portions of Bellefonte, is now offered for sale. Retiring merchants, lumbermen who have made their fortune, or "any other man," who desires to live in a magnificent house, can be accommodated by calling, without delay, at the office of the REPUBLICAN, where terms, and all particulars, will be made known.

NEW CLOTHING.—In another column of the REPUBLICAN will be seen the advertisement of A. Sternberg. He feels so good over his past success, and so thankful to the people for past favors, that he consults the Muses, and breaks forth in strains of sweetest song. He sings of the golden age—of the age of steam—of his large and well-selected stock of dry goods and clothing, and does it well. He invites everybody, whether they wish to take a ride over the Pacific Railroad, or to stay at home, to call and examine his stock. This is right. Sternberg is an enterprising business man, and is extremely polite and obliging to his customers.

GOOD WORK.—Some time ago, we noticed the fact that Jno. P. Harris, Cashier of the First National Bank of Bellefonte, had built a splendid residence, on Linn street. Business called us into that portion of our town, a few days since, and while there, we took occasion to go through the house. It is complete in all its arrangements. But it is not our intention to notice the house, so much as the mechanical genious of our friends, Geo. B. Anderson and Emanuel Noll, who did the plastering. This work is certainly well done, the ornamental work surpassing anything we have ever seen in this part of the country. Messrs. Anderson & Noll are good workmen, understanding their business perfectly, of which fact any one can convince himself by calling at said building, and examining their work.

MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS MEN.—Again we warn our merchants and business men to look well to their interests. This is the age of steam, Pacific railroads, sub-marine telegraphs, rich men, rich women, fast men and fast women, polite men and polite women. If you want to do business, you must wake up. No chance for old foggyism now. No time for Rip Vanwinkle naps. If you want people to call and see you, you must extend to them an invitation through the columns of the REPUBLICAN.

If you have anything to sell,
If you have a house to rent,
If you have a hou e to sell,
If you have a farm to sell,
If you want to buy a house or farm,
If you keep hotel, or are engaged in any kind of business, let the 3500 Republicans, and all the decent Democrats of Centre county know it, through the columns of the BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

GO AND HEAR.—If the young men, and, indeed, some of our older men, of Bellefonte and vicinity, only knew what they missed by not attending the M. E. Church, we are pretty confident they would make up their minds to be there every Sabbath. It is the duty of every man and woman, in health, to go to the house of God, every Sabbath day. It is a duty we owe to God—to ourselves, and to the community in which we live, and of which we form a part, to set a good example to others, morally and religiously. But when that duty can be performed, and its very performance turned into extreme pleasure, by listening to the able, eloquent and instructive sermons preached every Sabbath, by the Rev. Jas. Mullen, who can, or who will remain away, or waste his precious time in loafing round the corners, or running over the hills, violating the commands of God, and laying the foundation for your own sure and swift destruction.

Young men, and young women, pause and reflect! Every time you absent yourselves from the house of God, you do a great wrong to the community—to your own precious and immortal souls. It is no excuse that you have no pew.—The seats in the M. E. Church, in one sense, are as free as they were in the good old days of primative, genuine Methodism. Not a man, or woman, can come there without finding a comfortable seat. Every pew-holder, every member, and every sincere lover of the Church, will bid you welcome, and see that you are comfortably seated; and we can assure you, that you will hear the Gospel of Christ preached in its purity, with an earnestness and a pathos that will do you good, as "it doeth the upright in heart." Come and see! Come and hear! Come, that you may have the pleasure of knowing that you have done your duty.

GROCERY.—Among the new advertisements of this number of the REPUBLICAN, will be found the advertisement of Sechler & Co. This is an enterprising firm, and keep constantly on hand a large and superior stock of groceries, confectioneries, hams, flour, canned fruits, dried apples, peaches, &c., at their new storeroom, in the Bush & McClain Block, near the depot. The gentlemen constituting this firm, are well known to most of our people, and have the reputation of being honest and fair men. The fact that they have found their way into the advertising columns of the REPUBLICAN, is all the recommendation that our hosts of readers should, or will ask.

IF you have a discharge from the nose offensive or otherwise, partial loss of the sense of smell, taste or hearing, eyes watering or weak, feel dull and stupid or debilitated, pain or pressure in the head, take cold easily, you may rest assured that you have the Catarrh. Thousands annually, without manifesting half of the above symptoms, terminate in consumption and end in the grave. No disease is so common, more deceptive or less understood by physicians. R. V. Pierce, M. D., of Buffalo, N. Y., is the proprietor of Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy,—a perfect Specific for Catarrh, "cold in the head," or catarrhal headache which he sends to any address, post paid, for sixty cents, or four packages for $2 00.

Sold by most Druggists everywhere. my19-2t.

PLUMBER, GAS AND STEAM FITTERS.—It is with pleasure we direct the attention of our readers to the advertisement of J. W. Baily, Plumber, Gas and Steam fitter, in another column of the REPUBLICAN. Persons building new houses, and, therefore, in need of fire places, heaters, stoves, low-down grates, challange heaters, &c., &c., would do well to call at this splendid establishment, near the depot, in the new Bush and McLain block. Mr. Baily is a good workman—understands his business in all its various branches, and is, moreover, a perfect gentleman. From the numerous recommendations in his possession, we select the following flattering notice, and strong testimonial:

HOLLIDAYSBURG, 1869.

To the Citizens of Bellefonte, or Whom it may Concern:—I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Jno. W. Bailey, as a gentleman of great energy and purseverance, celebrated here for his mechanical skill and ingenuity. He has just fitted up my residence, throughout, with gas and water, and in a manner most elegant. Since the completion of his job for me, I made it my business; whilst in Philadelphia, to examine, critically, the plumbing in many fine houses, and say, cheerfully, and with confidence, that I found but few to equal, and none to excel, in point of beauty of finish, or excellence of workmanship, and to those who may require the service of a gas fitter or plumber, I recommend him, with the assurance that those who engage him will not be disappointed.

Yours truly, JAMES DENNISON.

STRAW FLOWERS.—Straw flowers on the graves of our departed heroes, on Saturday, the 29th inst? A meeting of our citizens should be called at once, to make the necessary arrangements.—Among the number of heroic dead who sleep in the Bellefonte cemetery, are the names of H. Petriken, E. M. Buchanan, McKane Buchanan, Jno. A. Bayard, J. B. Cook and Col. George Dare. These men gave their lives that Liberty and the Nation might live. Will we honor the noble—the immortal dead?

We learn, from the Press, that President Grant has issued orders that all the Departments of the Government be closed on the 29th inst., so that the officers and employees may participate in the ceremonies of decorating the graves of Union soldiers and sailors at Arlington. There is a peculiar fitness about this order, which will tend to make the ceremonies more touching and solemn. The General of the armies in which the sleeping braves fell—at whose command they faced death, and in whose ability they had the utmost confidence, is now enabled, as Chief Executive of the Nation they died to save, to make the most imposing recognition of their services, and truly represent the nation in its annual tribute to bravery and worth.

Will the Government officials, and the citizens of our town, act in harmony in this matter, and see to it at once, that the necessary arrangements be made for the performance of this solemn duty?

MONEY.—We hope the readers of the REPUBLICAN will not forget that our terms are $2 00 per annum, in advance. We must pay cash for every thing in connection with our business. As we do not like to dun or beg for money, we hope those of our subscribers who have not yet paid for their paper, will take the hint, and hand over the scrip without delay.

We printed the above genteel, but earnest appeal, to our readers, in our last number, and we are happy to state that quite a number did take the hint, and did hand over the scrip. Now, we know, that our subscribers are all, not only honest, but live men, and only need a few words, by way of remembrance, to cause them, each, and every one, to send us two dollars, and at the same time, work to increase our list. We have a Governor to elect next Fall, and we must elect him. We must redeem Centre county, and elect our whole county ticket next October. The way to do this is, to scatter the REPUBLICAN, broad-cast, throughout the county. Every Republican should subscribe, and pay for it, and see that his neighbor does the same. What signifies two dollars, when, by the expenditure of that small sum of money, you not only get value for it in useful information, for yourself and children, but aid in the redemption of the county from the mis-rule of the sham-Democracy, and the Court House Clique. Republicans of Centre, do your duty, like men, and the work is done. The hosts of treason's sympathisers will flee before you, like chaff before the wind. They proved false to their country in the hour of her greatest peril—the people will repudiate and punish them. They have sown the wind; they must reap the whirl-wind of the people's indignation. Will you arouse and aid in this good work?

CONFLAGRATION.—The old M. E. Church, at Beech Creek, caught fire, by sparks falling on the roof, from the flue, on Sunday about 1 o'clock, P. M., and burnt to the ground. The congregation had removed, some six months ago, to their new Church. The old building was occupied, at the time, as a dwelling-house, by David Bornbaugh. The furniture and contents of the house were all removed. No insurance.

A LIBERAL OFFER.—By a communication in this number of the REPUBLICAN, it will be seen that the Professors of the Agricultural College have made a most liberal offer to the school teachers of Pennsylvania. We hope the teachers will appreciate this offer, and avail themselves, at once, of the advantage it affords them to obtain a scientific education. It is true that Chemistry, Mineralogy, Anatomy, Physiology, Botany, Zoology and Geology, are not now required to be taught in our free schools; but how long will it be until this is changed? It is not required now, not because these branches are unnecessary, but because it was, and is, impossible to procure teachers able and competent to teach them. All these branches should be taught, when required, in our common schools, and the day is not far distant when teachers will be compelled to teach them, or abandon the profession. In view of these facts, the offer on the part of the Faculty of the Agricultural College is a timely one. Let every teacher in the State avail him, or herself, of this offer to obtain a liberal and thorough knowledge of these branches.

The Agricultural College is one of the great Institutions of the State, and the present able and efficient Faculty are doing all in their power to establish for it a reputation, second to no College in the United States.

It is a State Institution, and one of which every Pennsylvanian may justly feel proud. We hope, therefore, that every Editor, who feels a pride in the old Keystone, and her Institutions, will copy the communication referred to, and thus aid the Faculty of the College in placing their very liberal offer before the teachers and the people.

For the REPUBLICAN.

TO THE TEACHERS OF PENNSYLVANIA.—In view of the liberal endowment bestowed by this State upon its Agricultural College, the faculty desire to render the largest possible return.

Whilst the primary object of the Institution is to fit young men for usefulness in "Agriculture and the Mechanic Arts," there is nothing to prevent the faculty giving instructions in such branches as the College may have superior facilities for teaching.

With this end before them, those of the Faculty who represent the sciences of Chemistry, Mineralogy, Anatomy, Physiology, Botany, Zoology and Geology, hereby offer to take such Teachers as may wish to give especial attention to these sciences, and to fit them rapidly as is consistent with thoroughness, for imparting the same knowledge to others.

This offer takes effect from date, except in Zoology and Geology. They, too, will be included at an early day.

No charge will be made for tuition.

The Chemical Laboratory is well supplied with all the appliances needed in quantitative and qualitative analysis.—The teaching in Anatomy and Physiology will be made clear by the use of skeletons, charts and the microscope.—Botany can be taught to advantage during either term. In the flowering season the region around will furnish material for analysis of plants, and in the winter months an herbarium of fifteen thousand species of plants will afford ample facilities for the same work. The Professor, in this department, will spare no pains to make his instruction practical.

Teachers can enter at any time during a session, singly, or in classes.

It is not, by this arrangement, proposed to make scientific men; for this would imply years of devotion to those studies; but it is thought possible to fit earnest teachers, in a few months, for giving elementary scientific instruction in our common schools and academies.

Papers, in other counties, having an interest in the cause of scientific education, will please copy.

Butchers—B. V. Black, J. M. Morgan.

To the above list might be added all the good Lawyers and Physicians, Auctioneers, &c., in town or country, but our space is taken up, and we will, therefore, invite our readers to examine our column of business and professional cards, and our advertising columns, at their leisure; always remembering, that men who advertise, are to be preferred to those who do not.

CLEANING PAINT.—We know our readers—especially among the ladies—will thank us for this information in regard to cleaning paint. It is from the "House, Farm and Garden" department of the Springfield Republican. The writer says: "In cleaning paint which has been varnished there is nothing better than weak tea. All the tea leaves from several 'drawings' should be saved, and boiled over early in the morning of the paint cleansing. If boiled in an old tin pail or pan, the tea can be easily strained off for use. Wet a flannel in it and wipe off the oak-grained paint and you will be surprised at its brightness. No soap is needed, no milk, the tea is the most capital detergent ever invented. Wipe the paint dry with a soft cloth; you will find that very little elbow grease is needed. White varnish paint is cleansed as readily with it as the grained. For unvarnished white paint, we always use whiting instead of soap; it takes off all impurities and leaves an added whiteness. For washing windows we again have recourse to spent tea leaves, and reboil a quantity of them. First the varnished sashes are wiped off with the weak tea, and the glass is thoroughly washed, using old newspapers instead of cloths for the rubbing, as they leave no marks of lint. Windows thus washed look bright and clear, and if our readers once try this process of cleaning them, they will never use water."

HISTORY.—The history of the 49th P. V. will be continued next week. Owing to a pressure of legal business Mr. Hutchison was unable to furnish it in time.

Special Notices.

TAKE A LOOK AT THE SIGNS.—All men of business within the range of this and adjoining counties, when they visit Bellefonte, should not fail to inspect the splendid signs of the First National Bank, Reynolds & Co's. Bank, and Zimmerman Bro's. & Co; also the numerous smaller professional "shingles" scattered over the town. Also the sign of the Brockerhoff House, all executed by our friend, and late editor and publisher of the Central Press, JOHN G. KURTZ. For work of this description, call at his office. † ja27'69-tf.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TOWN LOTS FOR SALE.—The undersigned informs the citizens of Bellefonte, and of Centre county, that he has, just outside the Borough limits, and near the "County Fair Grounds,"

FORTY-TWO BUILDING LOTS,

beautifully situated, which will be sold at reasonable rates. For full particulars, terms, &c., apply to JOHN COLE, apr7'69 6m. Bellefonte, Pa.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.—The First Annual Covention of the Centre county Sabbath School Association will be held in the Court House, in Bellefonte, Pa., on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the 25th, 26th and 27th of May, 1869. Exercises will begin on Tuesday evening, at half past seven o'clock. Eminent sunday school men are expected to assist in the work of the Convention. All who are interested in the work are cordially invited to attend.

TOWN LOTS FOR SALE, HAVING THE FOLLOWING MERITS.—They are near the Court House.
They are not on a hill.
They are located on one of the principal streets of the Borough.
They are very low in price.
They will be sold on a reasonable credit.
Half the marketing entering Bellefonte passes the front of these lots, and may be had, which is an important consideration; for, who has not travelled the rounds of the stores in search of butter, &c., and returned home disappointed?
For a residence and boarding house for any who do not wish to loose time goin to or returning from meals, these lots are very desirable. Apply to
JNO. D. WINGATE.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

Some folks are always fretting,
Will their troubles never cease?
Will nothing ever bring them
The blessed boon of peace?

To peace and true contentment
The way is very plain,
And if you'll pay attention
The secret I'll explain.

Smith's home was all confusion,
His wife would scold and fret,
And such a scene I really think
I never shall forget.

His wife would spank the children,
And chase them off to bed;
Set down, and cry as women do,
And wish that she were dead.

She'd call her husband awful names,
A "nasty, horrid man,"
And if he "did'nt change his ways,'
She'd "go right home to 'mam.'"

When Smith returned to bed one night,
He thought the matter o'er;
He vowed he'd end this foolish fight—
Have peace at home once more.

Ere long the neighbors noticed
His wife had changed her tone,
And Smith was "gay and happy,"
For he'd bought an "Our Old Home."

Now his wife is every smilling,
And all he wrath has flown;
And she calls her husband "darling.
For he's bought an "Our Old Hom

Smith says his "wife has really
The sweetest temper known,
And everything is lovely
Since he's bo't an 'Our Old Home.'"

And now he takes his comfort;
He's found happiness at last,
And sunbeams bright and glancy
Around his way are cast.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, May 26, '69.

For the REPUBLICAN.

A Plea for the Crows and Foxes.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—A great many of our farmers are in the habit of killing all the crows and foxes that they can. This is all wrong, and detrimental to the best interests of the farmer. Instead of crows and foxes being enemies to farmers, they are their best friends, and if the cultivators of the soil properly understand their best interest they would use their influence in having laws passed preventing the destruction of their friends—the crows and foxes.

The greatest enemies farmers have to contend with, in order to raise good crops, are mice and "cut worms."—Mice, during the winter months, often destroy large fields of wheat, while "cut worms," in the spring, frequently destroy crops of corn.

All the inventions heretofore created to scare crows from cornfields and destroy "cut worms," have proven a failure. Crows do not visit cornfields for the purpose of destroying the corn, as generally, but erroneously, supposed; but for a more laudible purpose, of devouring worms bro't to the surface by the cultivation of the soil, thereby promoting the material wealth of the farmer, and as long as these can be found, the most selfish crow will not disturb a hill of corn, and if the husbandman, while planting his corn will observe whether worms were plenty or scarce, and if scarce, drop a few grains of soaked corn here and there over his fields, the planted corn will not be disturbed by crows. If he finds the worms plenty this need not be done, as the corn will remain undisturbed.

There is no good land but what produces a good crop of field-mice, who, during our long winters, must have something to eat, and as their fall supplies generally are eaten up by the 1st of January, the wheat fields and fruit trees furnish them with good food until spring, to the great annoyance and damage to the farmers.—Now it so happens that foxes consider mice the best of food, and will not eat any other kind as long as mice are procurable, consequently they make it their especial business to hunt all the mice they can find, and as long as they can get them the farmer's fowls are safe and his wheat crop good. Instead of crows and foxes being the farmers enemies they are his best protectors. Farmers, spare them.

PHILO.

BELLEFONTE, May 19, 1869.

Stick to One Thing.

There are many farmers who do not stick to one thing long enough to make it pay, consequently they lose in everything. At one time they conclude to devote themselves to stock-raising. Before they get fairly under headway in this, they change their minds and go back to raising grain.—Some again make a specialty, for a time, of a certain crop—wheat, corn, or potatoes for instance. While they are following this specialty, the crops may be small and the prices low, and they turn to another just in time to miss large crops and good prices in what they have left.

The best farmers we have observed are those who first find out what their soil is best adapted to produce. They then turn their energies in that direction and go straight forward in that line. A proper crop does not discourage them. They go on and are sure to be finally successful.

To illustrate our idea. We once knew a farmer who made it a point to fatten from twenty-five to thirty hogs every year. Let the price of pork be high or low, he every year had his lot of hogs of about the usual number.—He took great pride in having the best in the neighborhood. Some years perhaps he might have done better by turning his whole attention to some other specialty in farming. But we always noticed this, that taking one year with another for a long time, say ten years, he made the hogs pay. He was a successful farmer.

Another farmer, near by, every year planted potatoes. Sometimes his crop would fail, and sometimes when he had a good crop, the price would be low. But he kept straight forward. Every spring he planted potatoes.—The result in this case was the same as that in the other. Taking one year with another for a considerable number of years, he made the potatoe crop pay. He, too, was a successful farmer.

The farmer who would make his business pay must have a policy, and must adhere to it.—Am. Farm Mag.

HOW TO RAISE MANY CUCUMBERS.—1. Never take take fresh seed of last season, but always take seeds two or four years old. Who cannot get old seed, should have his fresh seeds dried near a warm stove during several weeks. Some gardeners, in order to obtain this end, carry their seed in their pockets. Old cucumber seed will bear earlier and more fruit. Fresh seed will make weak plants, and is longer in germinating.

2. Pinch off the end of the main shoot. This will strengthen the growth of the vine, the latterals will come out sooner, and you will get more fruit before frosts set in again.

How to get fine flavored cucumbers 1. Get your seed from a reliable seedsman.

2. Soak your seed in milk for about twenty-four hours before sowing.—Horticulturist.

Domestic Receipes.

Aunt Betsey came in yesterday as I was making paste to paper my bedroom.

"Put a little pulverized alum in it, Kate," said she; "a half teaspoonful to the pint of flour, then you will not need to wash the wall with vinegar, and it will make the paper stick, too."

While she was in, old Mr. Mix drove up with eggs and meat to sell. He and aunt Betsey used to go to school together when they were children.

"What sort o' meat you got," said she, "tender or tough!"

"Some of its tender; line-steak is allers tender, you know. My old woman says she can make any steak tender by rubbing this ere carbonate of soda on it over night, and then washing it off just afore you cook it in the mornin'."

"Stop at my house," said Aunt Betsey. If sody'll make it tender, I can keep it with black pepper till I eat it up."

"How did you say, Betsey!" inquired Mr. Mix.

"Why, jest rub common black pepper all over it, and it'll keep in the warmest weather. Some folks salt their steaks to make 'em keep, but salt draws all the juice out of the meat, and makes it tough and tasteless. When you want to cook it, wash off the pepper, and it'll be just as tender and savory-like as one could wish. Salt oughn't to be put on steak till it is all done, and laid on a hot platter. I allers salt my steak just afore I put it on the table."

After Mr. Mix left: "Do tell me, Kate, how you made that sponge-cake you had at the Sewing S'iety the oth er day; 'twas real nice, and so light; just what sponge cake out to be."

SPONGE CAKE.—Two cups of flour, two cups of sugar, six eggs, one teaspoonful essence of lemon, one tablespoonful of water.

Thank you, Kate; and would you mind writing down on the other side of that sheet, how to make that fruit puddin' you had the last time I dined here? I can't generally eat plum puddin', but that didn't hurt me a bit."

So I wrote as follows, baby all the while in my arms, and pulling at my nose and hair:

FRUIT-PUDDING.—One cup of molasses, half a cup of brown sugar, half a cup of butter, one cup of milk, three and a ½ cups of flour, one half teaspoon each of cinnamon, allspice, and cloves, half a cup or more of raisins or currants a large cupful of chopped apples, or if you have no appless, dried peaches or dried apples that have been well soaked, will do: one teaspoonful of soda stirred in the molasses. Boil two hours.—Hearth and Home.

SWEET CORN.—It is a surprising fact that sweet corn is not abundantly grown among farmers. Every farmer thinks he must raise his five or ten acres of Indian corn every year, in order to fatten his pork, and to furnish fodder for his stock, &c. Now, if every farmer would grow three or five acres of sweet corn, his crop wo'd prove of much more value in proportion to the number of acres of Indian corn for feeding purposes. Last spring I planted six acres of sweet corn for the purpose of taking it into market green. But after the market became "glutted," I concluded to save the balance of my corn and cure it to feed. I cut and fed my hogs corn (in the stalks) every day, and they would eat stalks and all as clean as they would green clover. I would recommend it to those that sow corn in preference to any other.

Be careful to trace up your seed in the fall and then you will not fail to have good seed when you come to plant or sow.—Selected.

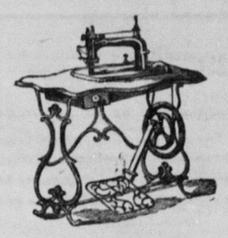
WEEDS.—One of the greatest nuisances in farming is the way that weeds are encouraged and protected in the crooks and vicinity of fences, from which place their seeds are scattered over the surrounding land. The extent to which seed is carried by high winds prove that one negligent farmer may annoy hundreds of farms by failing to exterminate the foul herbage. Could the evils be concentrated on the farm which nurses the weeds, the consequences would be a proper punishment for his carelessness and criminality—for criminal is any man who nurtures nuisances that thus injure the surrounding farmers. The fellow who keeps a bull-dog that annoys if not bites the passing travelers, may be reached by the law that is powerless to expose the injury occasioned to his neighbors by the nursuries of foul weeds which are harbored about his premises, especially in the vicinity of his fences.—N. Y. Independent.

CLEANLINESS.—A neat, clean, fresh-aired, sweet, cheerful, well-arranged house exerts a moral as well as a physical influence over its inmates, and made the members of a family peaceable and considerate of each others feelings and happiness. The connection is obvious between the state of mind thus produced, and habits of respect for others, and for those high duties and obligations which no laws can enforce. On the contrary, a filthy, squalid, noxious dwelling in which none of the decencies of life can be observed, contributes to make its inhabitants selfish, sensual, and regardless of the feelings of others. And the constant indulgence of such passions renders them reckless and brutal; and the transition is natural to propensities and habits incompatible with a respect for the property of others or for the laws.—N. Y. Independent.

SEWING MACHINE.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.



In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far i advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at

All manner of work such as Scroll Sawing, Moulding, Brackets, &c., &c made after any desired pattern.

ON THE SHORTEST NOTICE.

This company is composed of practicable mechanics, and Samuel Adams, one of the Co., has been foreman of the Bellefonte Planing Mill since its commencement.

Connected with the mill, and in operation at all times, is one of the latest improved

COKE DRYING KILNS,

which leaves the lumber in a perfectly healthy state, assists in preserving it, and in fact adds to its lasting qualities, while other methods of drying deteriorate, and renders it more liable

TO DECAY AND WASTE.

Lumber dried in a Coke kiln, is dried perfectly, and when worked and put up, will not

SHRIVEL AND SHRINK,

thus giving buildings the appearance of having been erected out of Green Material.
